The Emperor lives luxuriously while his people suffer, sensing change on the horizon he manufactures a crisis, at all costs he must keep his crown. Millions descend upon the land to help, when 'reality' turns into nightmare- the Emperor tries to overcome what was, in reality, an illusion. Confused? What is real? What is manufactured? Who remembers? Does it matter? When an army of revolting subjects are uncovered who will wear the crown and who will be 'exposed'*
