

Associação Agitadores Culturais is a collective that invests in communication and understanding through art as a way to empower adolescents and young people and emancipate them from the challenges of Angola and the continent, exploring the contradictions, discoveries and versatility of life. Members share a common purpose and unite to focus their various talents and organize their skills or resources to achieve specific goals: to highlight the role of young people who are very good at what they do. Each activity presents a different and mixed social narrative.